THE STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE COURT REFERRAL OFFICER PROGRAM

INTRODUCTION

The New Hampshire Court Referral Officer Pilot Program was initiated in October 1992 and was completed in June 1994.

The program provided the New Hampshire court system, and the Department of Corrections, Field Services Division with pre-sentence investigation assessments of non-violent substance abuse offenders and recommended appropriate treatment and placement. In addition, the program fostered enhanced communications and dialogue between the courts, county prosecutors, the Public Defender's Office, the Department of Corrections, the State Attorney General's Office, the Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention, the greater law enforcement community, private treatment providers, the Administrative Office of the Courts and the executive and legislative branches of government.

PURPOSE OF THE PROGRAM

The purpose of the program was to enhance existing sentencing practices in the superior and district courts. The judges have been faced with limited alternatives in sentencing defendants to treatment, counseling and appropriate placement. The court referral officers were able to provide background information and make recommendations for placement and treatment based on individual case assessments before sentencing. Through the use of the court referral officers, courts were provided additional information needed to appropriately place substance abuse offenders who might not have otherwise received assistance.

The types of treatment utilized during the program were: detoxification; 30-day residential placement; group therapy; outpatient treatment; intensive outpatient placement; long-term residential treatment; and incarceration when deemed necessary.

GOALS OF THE PROGRAM

The goals of the program were:

1. To initiate a court referral officer program to assist judges, courts and the Corrections Department in meeting the needs of individual offenders.
2. To establish a pilot project to coordinate case planning and prevent duplication of resources among local courts, corrections, and treatment providers.
3. To develop guidelines and risk assessment criteria to assist judges in making sentencing, treatment, and release decisions in substance abuse related criminal cases.
4. To reduce recidivism and treatment program failures in cases involving substance abuse.
5. To provide educational opportunities for judges and other greater criminal justice system personnel.
6. To formulate plans and procedures to assist courts in responding to the increasing volume of substance abuse-related cases.

INITIAL OPERATION OF THE PROGRAM

Approval for the New Hampshire program by the State Justice Institute was granted in October 1992. On November 11 - 12, 1992, two people involved in the Alabama Court Referral Officer Program, which has been in operation for several years, came to New Hampshire to present an orientation program and provide technical assistance to participants from the Department of Corrections, Administrative Office of the Courts, Office of Alcohol And Drug Abuse Prevention and contracted service providers. The orientation program produced several practical suggestions, hands-on materials suited to meet New Hampshire's needs, and provided general moral support to proceed with the program.

In December 1992, Governor Judd Gregg and the Executive Council authorized acceptance of the grant and approved the two court referral officer positions under the direction of the Department of Corrections, Field Services Division. Job descriptions were prepared with specific skills, accountabilities, and minimum qualifications listed. (See Appendix A.)

Recruitment for two certified alcohol and drug abuse counselors was initiated during the remainder of December. During early January 1993, testing and interviews were conducted jointly between the Administrative Office of the Courts, Department of Corrections, and the Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse. At that time two well-qualified, experienced court referral officers were selected to fill the approved positions.

Keeping in mind that the program was relatively small in size, it was determined to place one court referral officer in an urban setting and one in a rural setting. The urban setting, Hillsborough County, contains two of New Hampshire's largest city populations. Belknap County is a more rural setting and consists of a large transient resort population area known as the lakes region. The staff began work during the month of February 1993. Court referral officers were assigned to their respective locations under the supervision of chief probation and parole officers and proceeded to spend some time reviewing past court orders.

A Court Referral Officer Steering Committee was established during March 1993 to oversee the program, review policies, and assist with implementation of the program. The Steering Committee was composed of the following: superior court judge; district court judge; director, Administrative Office of the Courts; director, Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention; director, Department of Corrections Field Services; director, Public Defender Program; and a county prosecutor. The committee held a second meeting in March 1993, to meet the court referral officers and further plan for training and implementation of the program.

Court utilization of the program was slow to start but continued to gain momentum as the judges felt more confident about the skills and abilities of the court referral officers. By the end of May 1993, some courts were using the court referral officers on a regular basis and they had a monitoring case load.

The Court Referral Officers continued to conduct substance abuse evaluations of offenders as part of the pre-sentence investigation reports. During this time the court referral officers visited several service provider agencies and treatment centers to become familiar with program/placement availability and explain their role in assisting the courts with substance abuse offenders. Also at this time they attended clinical supervision meetings under the direction of the Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse staff.

Also, during May 1993, one of the court referral officers and a superior court judge (a member of the Court Referral Officer Steering Committee) attended a special substance abuse seminar in Carlisle, Massachusetts.

In June 1993, a special training seminar was held at the New Hampshire Supreme Court. The Steering Committee members, Department of Corrections participants, appropriate Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse members, individuals from the Administrative Office of the Courts, and two individuals from the National Center for State Courts were in attendance and all provided suggestions for future consideration. Several judges were invited to attend the session. The training seminar focused on the status of the program through June of 1993. Resource materials were disseminated by the Department of Corrections, Field Services Division, to serve as a "benchbook" resource guide for the judges and courts. The guide provided statewide information on private providers, treatment facilities, and intervention assistance for substance abuse offenders.

The court referral officers expanded their referral, monitoring, substance abuse evaluations, and caseloads. Since several judges were unable to attend the special meeting, the court referral officers made a sincere effort to visit with each judge to discuss the program and services that could be utilized by the courts.

As the program progressed, the court referral officers and the probation/parole officers became more integrated and worked in a team oriented atmosphere. The probation/parole officers were more comfortable with the court referral officers and saw a definite need for their services within the greater criminal justice system. The court referral officers were in constant contact with the courts and corrections department. They continually maintained a dialogue with chief probation/parole officers, staff members of the Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention and the judges.

Criteria were established for individual offenders to be eligible for participation in the program as described below.

Criteria For Referral To Court Referral Officers:

1. Offenders who have committed a criminal offense, either under the influence of alcohol or controlled substances or the use of alcohol or controlled substances, if that is believed to have been a precipitating factor for the commission of the offense, are eligible to participate. Violent offenders, offenders not motivated to participate in treatment, and offenders whose motivation to involve themselves for profit will not be referred as an alternative to incarceration.
2. Driving While Intoxicated (DWI) Offenders were generally not included. The State of New Hampshire Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program currently has an evaluation and treatment program in place for DWI offenders. The court referral officer program is intended to provide data to the court and identify services for those offenders for which there are no current services readily available.

3. Court referral officer staff will screen each referral for potential problems. Use of Mortimer-Filkins, MAST (Michigan Alcohol Screening Test) or CAGE (Confronting/Annoyed/Guilt and Eye-Opener Test) are used. Those offenders deemed not to have a problem are referred to the ten-hour educational component as indicated in the original grant. Those who are deemed to have a problem as a result of initial screening undergo a complete psycho-social evaluation to include treatment recommendation.
4. Offenders who are ordered to be under the treatment supervision of the court referral officer do not need to be on probation (i.e., conditional discharge, condition of a suspended deferred sentence or fine). (See Appendix B.)
5. An order for substance abuse screening does not need to involve a pre-sentence investigation report.
6. Court referral officers must return completion notification of program requirements to the court and the offender.
7. Offenders who fail to complete program requirements are returned to court for further action by the court.

In-take information and assessments were conducted on individual offenders referred by the courts and/or by the probation/parole division. The screening instruments mentioned in #3 under Criteria were used for evaluation. (See Appendix C.)

Tracking documents such as the "Master Treatment Plan" were used to monitor offenders as they moved through the system. Court referral officers would complete the tracking plan by identifying problems, goals, and appropriate time frames for offenders to accomplish specific tasks. Each offender would commit to the plan by signing along with a staff member. (See Appendix D.)

The Court Referral Officer Steering Committee met a second time during September 1993. Program referral guidelines were reviewed and suggestions were made to modify language which would provide a clear distinction between evaluation and treatment. Discussion in the meeting also addressed an educational conference for the greater criminal justice system to be held sometime in November or December 1993.

An educational sub-committee, appointed by the Interbranch Council On Substance Abuse and the Criminal Justice System (ISAC) (see original grant application), was charged with planning an educational workshop for judges and employees of the greater criminal justice system. The committee consisted of nine members representing the courts, Attorney General's Office, State Judicial Council, Administrative Office of the Courts, Police Standards and Training, House of Representatives, and the Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention.

The committee held several planning sessions in which a list of topics was developed, a broad list of invited participants was prepared, and well qualified speakers were selected to make presentations. The conference was set for November 17-19, 1993, in Portsmouth, New Hampshire. Approximately 400 people attended the sessions. The conference was entitled, "Understanding Punishment Alternatives For The Substance Abuser." (See Appendix E.)

Topics covered at the conference were as follows:

Public Attitudes\Drugs In Society (Keynote)

Substance Abuse Impact (Small group)

Pharmacology Presentation (Small group)

Substance Abuse Assessment (Panel discussion)

Treatment Alternatives (Panel discussion)

Early Justice Intervention (Small group)

Mandatory Drug Treatment (Small group)

Combining Effective Sentencing With Treatment (Small group)

Participants were assigned to small group activities encouraging the exchange of ideas and sharing of experiences. People left the conference with a renewed sense of purpose in dealing with the problems encountered in the daily work routine.

Final evaluations from the conference participants indicated that it was an excellent experience and should be followed with additional conferences of a similar nature.

The New Hampshire Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse provided everyone at the conference with a copy of their resource guide which was utilized especially by the judges and the court referral officers. As previously indicated, it contains statewide information on location of programs and services of private providers appropriate for court referral officer offender placements. (See Appendix F)

In December 1993, due to the initial delay of the program, (as mentioned on page three) an extension of the program was granted by the State Justice Institute.

From January to April 1994, the program continued to grow with the court referral officers providing assessments, monitoring, and support services to substance abuse offenders identified by the courts, as well as offenders under probation and parole supervision.

The Steering Committee met during that quarter to continue its monitoring of the project through the 1993 calendar year.

The New Hampshire Attorney General's Office Drug Policy Board awarded supplemental funding to the Department of Corrections, Field

Services Division, for continuation of the project through the balance of the fiscal year. Those funds commenced upon expiration of State Justice Institute funding and extended the project through June 1994. A further extension of funds has been granted by the Drug Policy Board through June 1995.

PROBLEMS ENCOUNTERED DURING THE PROGRAM

The program encountered a number of small problems during the course of the sixteen months of operation. Those listed below seem to be noteworthy of mention:

1. Some judges and other criminal justice officials felt that earlier intervention of the court referral officer might have been more effective, i.e., when pleas and negotiations were heard. The court referral officer would have been in great demand for intervention at the front end of cases.
2. Some corrections personnel indicated that the court referral officers could have been effective in dealing with individuals considered to be more difficult, rather than being limited to working with just non-violent first-time offenders.
3. The court referral officer in the rural county assignment found that providing services was much more difficult than if they had been located near a larger city where services are more readily available. They found it necessary to "network" with the Department of Employment Security to enable clients to re-enter the workfield. The Court Referral Officer also arranged for transportation, assisted in completing medical forms, provided informal support to self-help groups, church groups, and other related services.

4. The court referral officers felt that if the program were to be continued and/or expanded, they would recommend using a more effective screening device other than the Mortimer-Filkins test, which they believe does not provide adequate information on drug use.
5. The court referral officers would also construct a more detailed master tracking form to provide easier access to individual case management information for future offenders.

PROGRAM STATISTICS

Original statistics, provided by the Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention, estimated that 140,000 New Hampshire citizens are in some stage of chemical dependency; 90,000 alcohol troubled or alcoholics; 58,000 using and abusing illegal drugs; and 26,000 abusing drugs that are legally available. These numbers do not total because most of these individuals are poly-drug abusers. Of that population, 85,000 are men, 55,000 are women, and twenty percent are juveniles between the ages of 11 and 17. Although there are approximately 32,000 regular cocaine users and nearly 10,000 who are either former or current intravenous drug abusers in the group, it is apparent that alcohol is still the number one drug of abuse.

Intake assessments were completed for the courts and the Department of Corrections to provide the benefit of an offenders substance abuse history analysis. The evaluation included information to determine if the offender was in need of residential treatment, outpatient treatment, or no treatment. In addition, it included documentation on whether the offender was amenable to treatment intervention, or motivated for change to resolve the substance abuse problem.

The number of intake assessments completed were as follows:

	HILLSBOROUGH	BELKNAP	TOTALS
Intake Assessments Completed	224	172	396
Alcohol Related	157	117	274
Drug Related	63	30	93
Other	4	25	29

Offenders who were referred for court referral officer services were identified at the dispositional stage by the court during the sentencing process, the Parole Board during the release process, or by supervising probation/parole officers. Referrals were increasing from the courts as the program became known to the courts. Increasingly, the courts, especially at the district court level, were identifying offenders in need of treatment intervention, but did not necessarily require probation supervision. Those offenders were often placed on conditional discharge.

The largest source of referrals was from probation/parole officers who were able to identify substance abuse issues that had previously been undetected with offenders. These offenders were in as great a need for treatment intervention as were the more readily apparent offenders. Undetected treatment issues that could be resolved while the offender was under sentence contributed significantly to public safety as well as offender rehabilitation issues. Prior to commencement of the court referral officer program, the Department of Corrections Division of Field Services's ability to detect those issues among offenders in the pilot sites was limited.

Reasons for failure:

- Failure to remain abstinent despite treatment
- Committed new offenses
- Chose incarceration rather than completing treatment
- Mental Health issues prevented engaging in treatment

* (Reference from page 13). In the urban area there were more employment opportunities and services such as intensive out-patient and out-patient which allowed offenders to maintain employment while being treated for chemical dependency.

In the rural areas there were relatively few intensive out-patient and out-patient services available for offenders. Many times offenders had no means of transportation and lived out of the area where services were offered. High unemployment and marginal employment opportunities in the area allowed offenders to accept in-patient residential treatment. Also because of the lack of services in the area offenders referred were apt to be at a later stage of dependency which accounted for higher treatment failures.

Offenders Incarcerated: The program was proactive to provide treatment services within the ability of the offender as well as their individual needs. The program was also proactive to return an offender to the court/parole board in those instances where an offender had intentionally not complied with the program to which they had been referred.

EVALUATION OF THE PROGRAM

The original grant application provided for evaluation of the program by a consultant with a proven track record in court evaluation techniques. The National Center for State Courts was selected to review the program and assess its accomplishments. The original evaluation plan was reduced in scope at the outset of the program; therefore, the evaluation is not as extensive as stated in the original grant. Results of the evaluation are on file at the State Justice Institute.

CONTINUATION AND EXPANSION OF THE PROGRAM

The Department of Corrections, Division of Field Services, submitted a proposal to the State Attorney General's Office that requested funding the program for the period from April 1, 1994, to December 31, 1995. Their belief is that the program thus far has proven sufficiently successful and cost effective for the Division of Field Services to develop plans for eventual expansion of the program to other areas of the state. Support for continuation of the project has come from a wide variety of individuals and agencies, i.e., superior and district court judges, Department of Corrections, Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention, public defenders, and the executive and legislative branches of government. Their interest in the program was indicated by several letters of support depicting the many positive aspects of the program. Comments ranged from that of helping individual offenders who probably would not otherwise receive assistance, support from judges and courts, expertise provided by the court referral officers in compiling essential background information, proper placement recommendations for offenders, and reduction in costs of incarceration.

The following quote by a superior court judge directly involved in the program summarizes the essence of the Court Referral Officer Program:

In a variety of..... cases in which I presided I had the benefit of the CRO's input as a regular part of their assigned work. In all of these cases, having the benefit of the CRO's expertise (which combined knowledge of corrections work with knowledge of what was necessary to effectively treat substance abusers) made the task of sentencing much easier and the object of doing justice much more certain.

The Court Referral Officer Program provides invaluable information to judges who sentence drug offenders, information which was not readily available before the inception of the program. The information in question affords judges a much better sense of what is necessary in sentencing to deter repeat offenders, address issues relating to substance abuse, and protect society from the scourge of illegal drug use.

The expansion of the Court Referral Officer Program to all counties of our state, or short of that its continuation in its present configuration at the very least, will produce benefits for the common good beyond the expense of carrying it. The program is highly cost effective and particularly worthy of keeping. I cannot say enough about the program either in its theory or in its actual practice. Further funding for the program will be money very well spent for the prevention of illegal drug related activity.

In response to the proposal by the Department of Corrections, continuation of the Court Referral Officer Program has been approved under a grant provided by the State Attorney General's Office entitled "Correction Treatment." The period of the grant is July 1, 1994, through December 31, 1995.

The Administrative Office of the Courts would especially like to thank the State Justice Institute, the New Hampshire Interbranch Council on Substance Abuse and the Criminal Justice System, the Department of Corrections, Field Services Division, the court referral officers, the Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention, and other members of the greater criminal justice system for making the program possible and assisting us along the way. There are so many individuals who should be recognized for their efforts making this program a success, however; they are too numerous to mention here.

APPENDIX A

SUPPLEMENTAL JOB DESCRIPTION

SUPPLEMENTAL JOB DESCRIPTIONClassification: Court Referral Officer Function Code: 2310-46Position Title: Court Referral Officer Date established: _____

Position Number: _____ Date of Last Amendment: _____

SCOPE OF WORK: To evaluate substance abuse problems, diagnosing appropriate treatment for the identified problems and to refer to appropriate treatment or conduct treatment programs themselves while monitoring treatment compliance for the substance abuse offender.

ACCOUNTABILITIES:

- Conducts substance abuse evaluations on appropriate offenders for pre-sentence investigations as assigned by the chief probation/parole officer or the courts.
- Conducts substance abuse evaluations on offenders who are currently under probation/parole supervision as assigned by the Chief Probation/Parole Officer.
- Identifies, mobilizes and coordinates community resources in support of clients.
- Conducts group and individual counseling as appropriate for offenders that are determined to have substance abuse problems.
- Reviews sentencing and probation conditions with offenders and monitors progress and compliance.
- Maintains case records of offenders participation and progress.
- Assists training probation/parole officers for identification of substance abuse offenders.
- Maintains community resource material for available social service agencies.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:Education:

SEE CLASS SPECIFICATION FOR MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Experience:

Special Qualifications: New Hampshire certified as a drug/alcohol counselor or have demonstrated that they have pursued sufficient training and experience leading toward New Hampshire drug and alcohol certification.

QUALIFICATION: COURT REFERRAL OFFICER

Class Code: 2310-19

Date Established: 11/10/92

Occupational Code: 3-2-5

Date of Last Revision:

BASIC PURPOSE: To monitor and evaluate the behavior and activities of probationers and parolees with substance abuse problems, and to recommend and provide treatment to insure compliance with terms and conditions of court orders.

CHARACTERISTIC DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

- ° Reviews sentence and probation requirements with offenders and monitors participants' compliance.
 - ° Develops and maintains procedures for evaluating each defendant according to screening criteria.
 - ° Maintains lists of agencies providing education or treatment services for referral or transfer as appropriate.
 - ° Monitors actions of probationers and parolees to ensure compliance with court orders.
 - ° Participates in pre-sentence investigations process and provides specialized services through group and individual counseling.

DISTINGUISHING FACTORS:

Skill: Requires skill in developing formats and procedures for special applications OR in investigating and reviewing the use of equipment and data for a specialized function.

Knowledge: Requires logical or scientific understanding to analyze problems of a specialized or professional nature in a particular field.

Impact: Requires responsibility for contributing to immediate, ongoing agency objectives by facilitating the direct provision of services to the public or other state agencies. Errors at this level result in inaccurate reports or invalid test results and require significant investment of time and resources to detect.

Supervision: Requires partial supervision of other employees doing work which is related or similar to the supervisor, including assigning job duties, providing training, giving instructions and checking work.

Working Conditions: Requires performing regular job functions in an environment which includes exposure to continuous physical elements or a number of disagreeable working conditions with frequent exposure to minor injuries or health hazards.

Physical Demands: Requires light work, including continuous walking or operating simple equipment for extended periods of time as well as occasional strenuous activities such as reaching or bending.

Communication: Requires summarizing data, preparing reports and making recommendations based on findings which contribute to solving problems and achieving work objectives. This level also requires presenting information for use by administrative-level managers in making decisions.

Complexity: Requires coordinating a combination of diverse job functions in order to integrate professional and technical agency goals. This level also requires considerable judgment to implement a sequence of operations or actions.

Independent Action: Requires a range of choice in applying a number of technical or administrative policies under general direction and in making routine decisions or in recommending modifications in work procedures for approval by supervisor.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS:

Education: Bachelor's degree with major course of study in counseling, criminal justice, sociology, psychology or a related social services field.

Experience: Three years' experience associated with a substance abuse program as a counselor or as a member of treatment team engaged in substance abuse prevention, treatment and rehabilitation. Each additional year of approved work experience may be substituted for one year of required formal education.

License/Certification: Valid New Hampshire driver's license. Must be a certified alcohol and drug abuse counselor during the probationary period or demonstrate training and experience leading toward New Hampshire drug and alcohol certification.

Recommended Work Traits: Knowledge of substance abuse prevention, treatment and rehabilitation. Some knowledge of the physiological, pharmacological, psychological and socio-cultural aspects of the substance abuser. Knowledge of rights of privacy and laws of confidentiality of client information. Some knowledge of the human services programs offered within the state. Ability to communicate with clients and their families and to collaborate with other agencies. Ability to prepare written reports. Ability to establish and maintain effective working relationships with other state employees, organizations and individuals interested in the program. Ability to work with alcoholics and/or drug abusers with a view toward rehabilitation. Must be willing to maintain appearance appropriate to assigned duties and responsibilities as determined by the agency appointing authority.

DISCLAIMER STATEMENT: This class specification is descriptive of general duties and is not intended to list every specific function of this class title.

INTRODUCTION OF SCREENING MATERIAL

INTRODUCTION OF SCREENING MATERIALS

I. A. Objective and scored tests

Mortimer-Filkins
MAST
CAGE
Profile of Scores

B. Interpretive

Psych/Social Information and Worksheet
Done by CADAC

II. Overview of Testing Materials

A. Mortimer-Filkins

two-part screening tool

1. Self-administered questionnaire has red score - indicates s/a questions; blue score - indicates psych/emotional questions combined total
2. Interview
 - done by CADAC
 - While standardized - gleans much more background information on client
 - Uses a system of cross checking answers by frequently asking some things in different ways thus checking levels of honesty and understanding of client responses.

Historical Perspective

Mortimer-Filkins Historical Perspective

- Well known to legal system since early 1970's.
- Used to measure the impact of use and abuse of substances on the various areas of a person's life. A Score of 60 or above indicates late stage problem use.
- This test was designed by the University of Michigan's Highway Safety Research Institute (HSRI) and used extensively with DWI's.
- Mortimer-Filkins Test "Court Procedures for Identifying Problem Drinkers" is widely recognized in the chemical dependency field as an unusually well planned and extensively field-tested diagnostic instrument.

- Studies by the authors indicate that good diagnostic procedures should:
 1. take into account previous traffic and criminal records of alcohol (chemical) related offenses;
 2. be structured in a way that would establish rapport;
 3. be subtle to discourage faking;
 4. be inexpensive;
 5. be objective, standardized, reliable, unambiguous, easy to score, understand and interpret; and
 6. cover a variety of nonspecific signs and symptoms relevant to detection of alcoholism (chemical dependency) in its early stages.
- One section has questions relating to the use and abuse of alcohol, the other section has mental health/psychiatric type questions, commonly known as red (CD) and blue (psych) scores.
- The second part of the test is an interview section which is designed to measure the impact of a substance upon the various spheres of a person's life.
- According to the profile chart, scores would identify the following:

0-39	social, no clear indication of problem
40-49	presume early problem
50-59	presume late problem
+60	indicative of presumed chemical dependency
- The Mortimer-Filkins is designed to be used with other information, i.e., other test and psych-social information. The questions are subtle, non-threatening and have the ability to draw out much more information through the skills of the interviews.

M.A.S.T Michigan Alcohol Screening Test

- This has been used since 1971. The questions touch on medical, interpersonal, and legal problems resulting from alcohol and other drug use. It measures the overall life impact of substance abuse. A weighted scoring system is used. A score of seven (7) or above indicates a mid-late stage dependency according to the DSM III-R.

C.A.G.E Confronting-Annoyed-Guilt and Eye-Opener Test

- Introduced in 1970 and developed by Ewing and Rause, it has been recognized as one of the most efficient and effective screening devices. Two or three affirmative answers should create a high degree of suspicion, four (4) affirmative responses should indicate chemical dependency:

Confronting; Annoyed; Guilt; and Eye Opener

III. Psych/Social Information for Assessment Purposes

- Done by CACAC (certified A/D counselor)
- Gives case history
 - Substance Abuse History
 - Family History
 - Current Relationships
 - Prior Treatment
 - Psych Information
 - Brief Medical History
 - Vocational/Educational History
 - Legal History
- This information usually presents a clear picture of the client.

IV. Interpretation by CADAC

- Profile of the client
- Interpret information in light of substance abuse issues.

Deal with client denial.

Ask questions in different ways, i.e., blackouts - "Have you ever not remembered something?"

Key in on symptoms, progression.

Make note of how someone in denial might answer questions or how someone in recovery might do so.

Give good indication of the level of influence of substance abuse on a person's life.

Assign or do education and treatment planning; make recommendations based on current status of client (his/her education, treatment needs); recommend type of setting which best meets needs of client within the boundaries of public safety.

JOSEPH DIAMENT

Joseph Diament is the chief executive officer of Odyssey House, Inc. of Hampton, New Hampshire. He previously served as Director of the New Hampshire Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention. During his stint in government service, Mr. Diament was also appointed Executive Assistant to the Governor for Children and Youth.

Mr. Diament is pursuing a doctoral degree at Brandeis University's Heller School for the Advanced Study of Social Policy, and holds a master's degree from Pennsylvania State University. He also holds a B.S. degree in community development from Penn State.

Mr. Diament has served as a member of the New Hampshire House of Representatives and on many boards at the state, regional and national levels.

CYNTHIA DONAHUE-VARG

Cynthia Donahue-Varg is employed by the Department of Corrections, Division of Field Services, as a court referral officer for the Hillsborough County Southern Region. She has worked in the field of mental health and substance abuse since 1981. She has worked in all phases of chemical dependency treatment, including detoxification, residential and outpatient. She was most recently employed by the Department of Corrections for the State of Maine at the Maine Correctional Center in Windham. She was also employed as an outpatient counselor for the Androscoggin County Jail in Auburn, Maine, where she was responsible for providing technical and consultative support and training to the criminal justice system and family programs.

Ms. Varg received her B.S. degree from the University of Massachusetts/Amherst and is currently a master's candidate in the School of Education Counseling/Consulting Psychology. She became a licensed substance abuse counselor in 1988 and is currently a nationally certified alcohol and drug counselor.

CAROL GOLDBLATT

Carol Goldblatt is presently employed as an HIV/AIDS educator and street outreach worker here in New Hampshire. Part of Carol's outreach involves intense work with substance abusers and their partners. Carol actively tries to recruit addicts into treatment facilities as part of her work.

Carol is a recovering cocaine and heroin addict with first hand knowledge of the "streets," the prison system and the struggles of being an active addict as well as one in recovery. Having spent many years incarcerated due to her drug abuse, Carol has her own personal testimonies regarding treatment issues in prison.

In addition to her outreach work, Carol is a writer who is presently working on a book detailing the lives and thoughts of incarcerated youth in New Hampshire and she is compiling a book of her own poetry. She is pleased to be a part of this conference.

HONORABLE HARL HAAS

The Honorable Harl Haas has been a circuit court judge in Multnomah County, Portland, Oregon since 1984. He has previously been elected to the offices of District Attorney for Multnomah County, Oregon State Senator, and Oregon State Representative. He graduated from Willamette University College of Law, Salem, Oregon, LLB, with honors in 1961. He is a member of the Oregon State Bar and admitted to practice before the Oregon Supreme Court, United States District Court for the District of Oregon, Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, United States Supreme Court.

Judge Haas has created and implemented the differential fast track drug docket eliminating a 700 case backlog in 1990. He has also created and implemented S.T.O.P. (Sanctions-Treatment-Opportunity-Progress), an early intervention drug program in 1991 which has received national attention.

FRANCIS X. HOLT

Frank Holt is a certified alcohol and drug abuse counselor in private practice in Wolfeboro, New Hampshire. He is the counselor for the Carroll County Jail in Ossipee and the clinical supervisor for the Chemical Dependency Unit at Frisbie Memorial Hospital in Rochester. A graduate of the Bellevue School of Nursing of Hunter College, he is an article referee for RN Magazine. Formerly, he was the manager of both the Alcoholism Treatment Unit and the Acute Psychiatric Unit at Catholic Medical Center in Manchester.

He is also a member of the editorial board of Fire Engineering Magazine and is the author of the textbook "Emergency Communications Management."

JEFFREY R. HOWARD, ESQ.

Attorney General Jeffrey R. Howard was born in Claremont, New Hampshire. He received his bachelor's degree in history from Plymouth State College of the University of New Hampshire in 1978 and graduated from Georgetown University Law Center in 1981. While at Georgetown, Attorney General Howard was an editor of the American Criminal Law Review.

He began his legal career in the Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division of the Attorney General's Office in 1981 and later served as associate attorney general in charge of the Division of Legal Counsel and then as deputy attorney general. In 1989, Attorney General Howard was appointed the United States Attorney for the District of New Hampshire. In this position, he was active in the prosecution of drug conspiracies and bank fraud, and he has been a strong promoter of drug education programs such as D.A.R.E. Attorney General Howard served on the Attorney General's Advisory Committee for both Attorneys General Thornburg and Barr, and in 1991 he was selected to serve as principal associate deputy attorney general of the United States.

On January 1, 1993, he became Attorney General for New Hampshire, a position he was appointed to by Governor Stephen E. Merrill, himself a former Attorney General.

HONORABLE SALLY ANN KELLY

The Honorable Sally Ann Kelly is currently associate justice for the Boston Municipal Court. In this position, Judge Kelly presides over criminal and civil trials, motions, and other hearings. As chairperson of the Court Clinic Committee, Judge Kelly is responsible for developing and supporting in court the AIDS Education Project and other addiction services. The AIDS education project, initiated in 1987 with Project Trust from Boston City Hospital, provides access to detoxification and treatment of alcohol and other drug addictions, as well as confidential testing, treatment and counseling for HIV infection. Honorable Kelly presented a workshop entitled "Women and Addiction" to the 1992 All Court Conference on Gender Issues. She has served on the Judicial Performance Enhancement Committee, and was appointed in 1993 by the Supreme Judicial Court to the Supreme Judicial Court Committee For Gender Equality and the Supreme Judicial Court Substance Abuse Project.

Judge Kelly graduated cum laude from the University of Massachusetts at Boston, and received her J.D. degree from Northeastern University School of Law. She attended and graduated from the Harvard University School of Public Health's Executive Program in Health Policy, Planning, and Regulation.

STEPHEN F. KENNY

Stephen Kenny is the former chief of treatment of the New Hampshire Office of Alcohol and Drug Prevention (OADAP).

He has over twenty-five years experience in the drug and alcohol field. He has worked in the private sector for-profit environment as well as in not-for-profit private facilities.

MARK A.R. KLEIMAN

Mark A.R. Kleiman is an associate professor of public policy and a research fellow with the Program in Criminal Justice Policy and Management at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University. His current research topics include retail-level drug law enforcement, the threat of a new heroin epidemic, controlling the spread of AIDS, strategies for controlling crime by drugs involved offenders, the benefits and costs of building new prisons, intermediate (non-prison) sanctions and the political philosophy of Machiavelli. He holds a master's and Ph.D. in public policy from the Kennedy School. He writes about drug policy and crime control, and he teaches those subjects as well as methods of policy analysis. Dr. Kleiman is the author of Marijuana: Costs of Abuse, Costs of Control (Greenwood Press, 1989) and of Against Excess: Drug Policy for Results (Basic Books, 1992). From 1979 to 1983 he worked for the Office of Policy and Management Analysis in the Criminal Division of the United States Department of Justice; in 1982-1983 he was its director, and a member of the National Organized Crime Planning Council. During 1977-1979 Dr. Kleiman served as deputy director for management and director of program analysis for the Office of Management and Budget of the City of Boston. Previously, he worked as special assistant to Dr. Edwin Land, chief executive of Polaroid Corporation, and as legislative assistant to Congressman Les Aspin. In addition to his academic duties, Dr. Kleiman advises local governments on drug policy.

DAVID J. MACTAS

David J. Mactas, president of Marathon, Inc., is an internationally acknowledged innovator and leader in the drug treatment field. President of Marathon since 1976, Mr. Mactas is responsible for the administration and operation of the largest residential treatment agency in New England. Under his leadership, Marathon today provides medical detoxification, residential and outpatient treatment, substance abuse crisis intervention, emergency shelter, residential treatment programs for adults and adolescents, and substance abuse treatment, education, and prevention for prison inmates and parolees. Mr. Mactas directs a staff of over 150 and is ultimately responsible for program development, contract management, fiscal affairs, fund raising, and public relations.

PATRICIA A. MARTICK

Patricia Martick has been employed as a counselor in the field of chemical dependency treatment since 1974. She has worked in inpatient settings and community based treatment, as well as state funded residential treatment facilities for law offenders. Her expertise within the legal system has placed her in the role of working with the criminal justice system for the majority of her career. She is presently employed by the State of New Hampshire, Department of Corrections, Division of Field Services in Belknap County as a court referral officer.

Ms. Martick completed a certificate program at Boston City Hospital and the Boston University School of Medicine in 1978. She earned her B. A. and M. S. at University of Massachusetts. Her major was human services and her minor was law. Ms. Martick is a certified alcohol and drug counselor for New Hampshire and Massachusetts. She is also internationally certified as an alcohol and drug counselor.

RICIA MCMAHON

Ricia McMahon is acting chief of staff of the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP). She was appointed special assistant to the White House in January 1993.

Prior to joining ONDCP, Ms. McMahon was regional manager, Northeast Regional Center. In that position, which she held from 1988 until joining the federal government, Ms. McMahon was responsible for the design, implementation and management of alcohol and other drug abuse prevention technical assistance programs that were provided to a variety of schools, universities and colleges and state departments of education in a 12-state area.

From 1986 until 1988, Ms. McMahon was director of community relations and marketing for Northern New England-Brookside Hospital, Nashua, New Hampshire.

Ms. McMahon held positions of increasing responsibility with the New Hampshire Office of Alcohol and Drug Abuse Prevention between 1981 and 1986 in various administrative areas. She became chief of prevention and education in 1983 and was charged with developing a statewide community assessment as well as implementing and evaluating a number of key projects, and verifying their progress.

JOHN D. MCPEAKE

John D. McPeake, Ph.D., C. A. S. is the senior vice president for clinical programs at Beech Hill Hospital in Dublin, NH. Dr. McPeake has been at Beech Hill Hospital since 1981 and has been involved in treating substance use disordered people for many years. In his current capacity, Dr. McPeake is responsible for the management, supervision and development of a continuum of inpatient and outpatient alcohol and drug rehabilitation treatment programs throughout New England. Dr. McPeake is an addiction specialist, active in the field of alcohol and drug rehabilitation treatment and speaks, writes and publishes frequently on various topics affecting addicted people and the field of addiction studies.

HONORABLE AARON MENT

Superior Court Judge Aaron Ment, chief court administrator, was born in Bridgeport, Connecticut on August 29, 1934. He received his B.A. degree from the Boston University School of Law in 1959.

Judge Ment became a judge of the court of common pleas in 1976 and joined the superior court two years later. During his judicial career, he served as chief administrative judge of the criminal division of the superior court (1983) and as deputy chief court administrator (1983-1984). He has also served as a member and co-chair of the Connecticut Justice Commission and as a member of the Public Services Commission.

Judge Ment was appointed chief court administrator in 1984. As chief court administrator, he is responsible for the daily administrative operations of the Connecticut judicial system, a branch of state government with approximately 2,400 judges and staff, and an annual budget of approximately $153 million.

PHILIP C. O'SULLIVAN

Philip O'Sullivan, M.S., A.C.S.W., C.A.C., is a member of the American Academy of Social Workers, licensed to practice psychotherapy in the State of New York. He holds master's degrees from the School of Police Administration, Michigan State University and the School of Social Work at Syracuse University and is completing his internship requirements with the University of Rochester's Department of Psychiatry, Family and Marriage Clinic. He was formerly with the Maryland Governor's Commission on Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, regional director with the Colorado Division of Criminal Justice, director of the Rochester-Monroe County Criminal Justice and Public Safety Training Center, professor of criminal justice-State University of New York, Monroe Community College and holds the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, Military Police Corps, United States Army Reserve. He has lectured extensively on issues in corrections and chemical dependency, and is recognized as an expert witness in police training and procedures. He practices in Rochester, New York, specializing in family, marriage, and chemical dependency.

ROBERT T.M. PHILLIPS, M.D.

Dr. Robert T.M. Phillips is deputy medical director of the American Psychiatric Association and serves as director of the APA Offices of Psychiatric Services and Minority and National Affairs. Dr. Phillips holds academic appointments as an assistant clinical professor of Psychiatry in the Law and Psychiatry Division of the Yale University School of Medicine, and as adjunct clinical professor of Correctional Mental Health at the New York Medical College Graduate School of Health Sciences. He is formerly the director of forensic services for the Connecticut Department of Mental Health and was the chief executive officer of the Whiting Forensic Institute, the State's sole maximum security hospital.

RONALD POWELL

Dr. Ronald Powell was appointed as the first commissioner of corrections for the State of New Hampshire in 1983, after having completed ten years as a deputy commissioner in the Georgia Department of Offender Rehabilitation. Powell was instrumental in prison reform in the South, and then moved on to consolidate three criminal justice agencies and one mental health facility into a new state department.

In addition to having a seminary degree in new testament theology, Powell has a Ph.D. in rehabilitation counseling from the University of Georgia and a post-doctoral certificate in strategic management from the Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. He has taught criminal justice at the University of New Hampshire, and as a teaching administrator he has personally instructed all new corrections employees in the State Corrections Academy.

DAVID C. STEELMAN, ESQ.

Since August 1992, David C. Steelman has been a senior fellow of the National Center for State Courts. For five years before that, he was head of the National Center's Northeastern Regional Office. In 19 1/2 years with the Center, he has led studies in such areas as appellate court management, trial court caseload management, determination of court facilities needs, court reporting, and traffic courts. He has done studies for New Hampshire courts on criminal defense services; court management issues in Hillsborough County; court reporter transcription preparation; the appellate system in the supreme court; court space needs in Rockingham County; a "paperless court" experiment in superior and district court; the state law library; and, most recently, the impact of drug cases on trial courts. From 1977 through 1983, Mr. Steelman was an adjunct professor in the evening division of Boston College.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate and former Ford Foundation Teaching Fellow with a master's degree from the University of New Hampshire, Mr. Steelman received his law degree from the Boston University School of Law. He is a Manchester resident and is admitted to the practice of law in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

MICHAEL TORCH

Michael Torch is a presenter with 16 years of experience in the field. He is an extensive trainer of alcohol and drug treatment professionals at the national level for many years. He holds the position of chairman of the New Hampshire Alcohol and Drug Abuse Counselor Certification Review Board and was named Alcohol and Drug Counselor of the Year by the New Hampshire Alcohol and Drug Abuse Counselor's Association in 1990.

Mr. Torch holds a master's degree in correctional treatment and in addition to being a certified alcohol and drug counselor, has 10 years experience delivering treatment in a correctional setting. He has been accepted as an expert witness in many New Hampshire Superior Courts, providing assessment and treatment recommendation testimony for over 10 years.

OUTPATIENT TREATMENT - YOUTH

The following agencies contract with OADAP to provide outpatient substance abuse counseling specifically for youth (under 18). These programs serve people whose usage of alcohol and drugs is affecting their daily living; i.e., family problems, irregular employment, arrests, school truancy, peer conflicts, etc. Cost: Sliding fee scale. In areas other than Manchester and Nashua, the OADAP outpatient contractors provide services to both adults and adolescents.

CRISIS INTERVENTION/SOBRIETY MAINTENANCE

Crisis Intervention sites are for individuals who are suffering intoxication from alcohol or drugs and not in a medical emergency. Admission is voluntary. These units are staffed by Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) and volunteers who are specifically trained in the management of the inebriate. The sites marked with asteriks () also serve as Sobriety Maintenance centers. Sobriety maintenance is a short-term residential program for alcoholics and substance abusers. The services include individual and group counseling, educational sessions and exposure to the self-help groups. The purpose is to provide a safe and supportive environment until an appropriate treatment slot, if warranted, becomes available. Person must be sober at time of admission. Sliding fee scale.
